As well, the concept of bearing a "position" exists for no others but human beings.
Quite the mystery, isn't it..?

so humans become dense.
If they master the work established by their position, they don't experience hardships in life,
Although everyone lives... for the sake of these ornaments ...

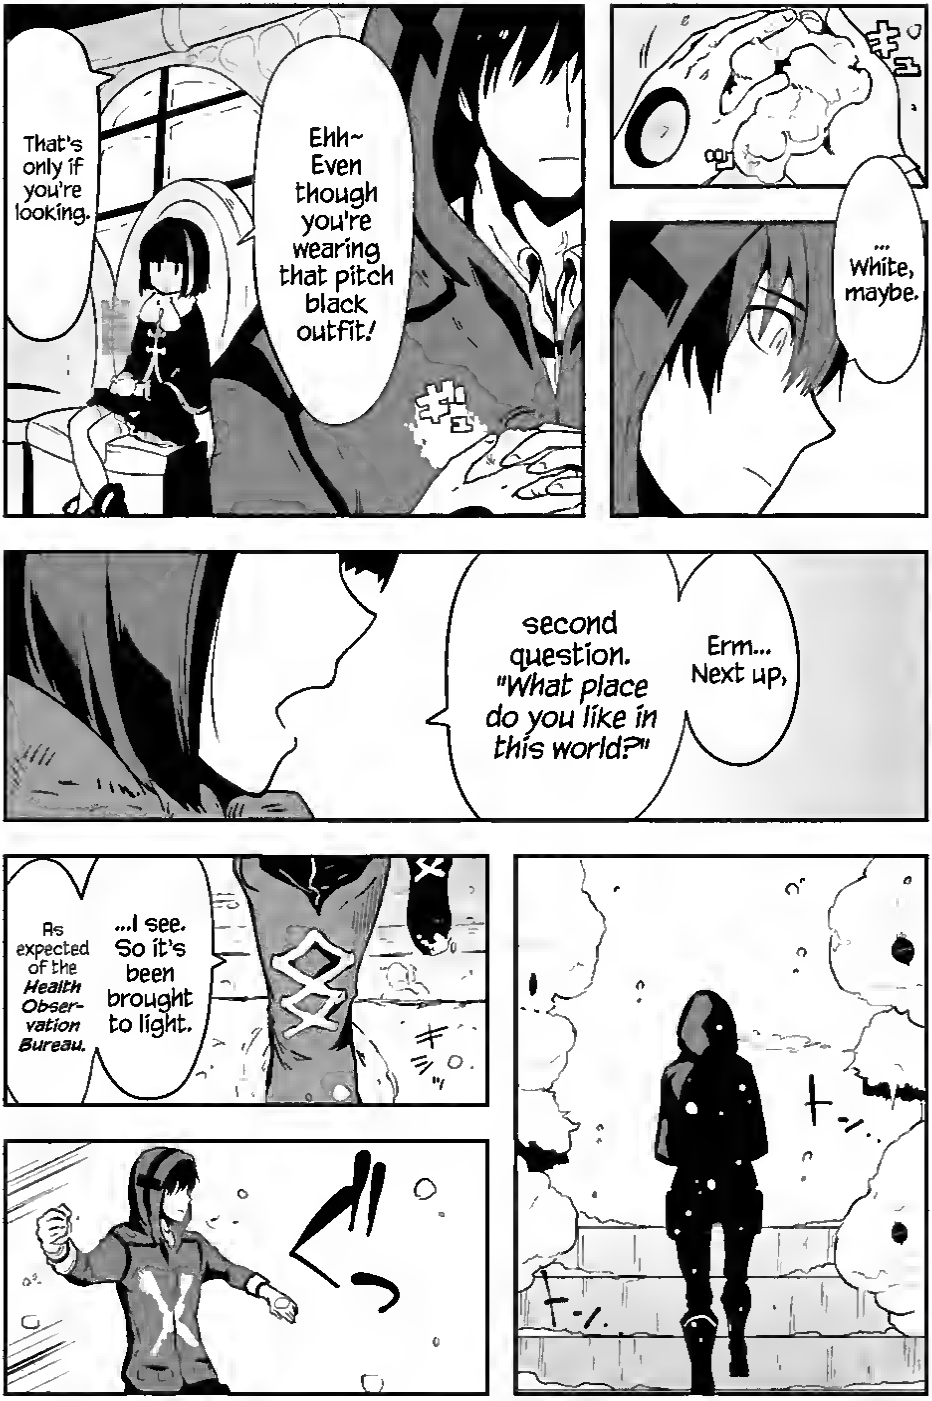
There isn't really a need to speak honestly so it's probably moot, but...
It's a one-time rule, so...
What in the world?
Well, first question. "What's your favourite colour?"
Mhm, please tell me.



That's only if you're looking.

Erm... Next up, second question. "What place do you like in this world?"
As expected of the Health Observation Bureau.

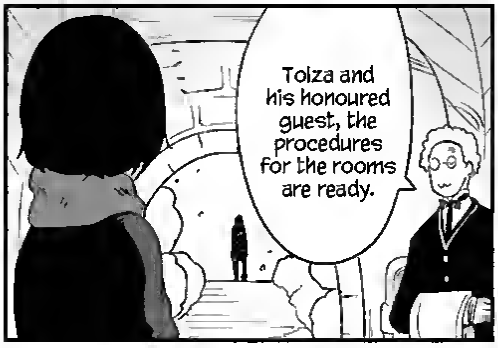
This matter concludes here.



Toiza and his honoured guest, the procedures for the rooms are ready.

Okay... I'll continue asking again when there's a chance.

Maybe she's somewhere with bad reception?

She was killed by the Subjugator in charge.

From what I heard, even though he was beating the M.O.N.star, it seems he still lacked three levels.
Yeah. It was soon after that.

No way... But at noon today-

Obviously, the Subjugator thought that that wasn't the time to stop.

It seems the Subjugator defeated the M.O.N.star safely and is moving on ahead.
Coco shouldn't have done a "Contract of Partnership".

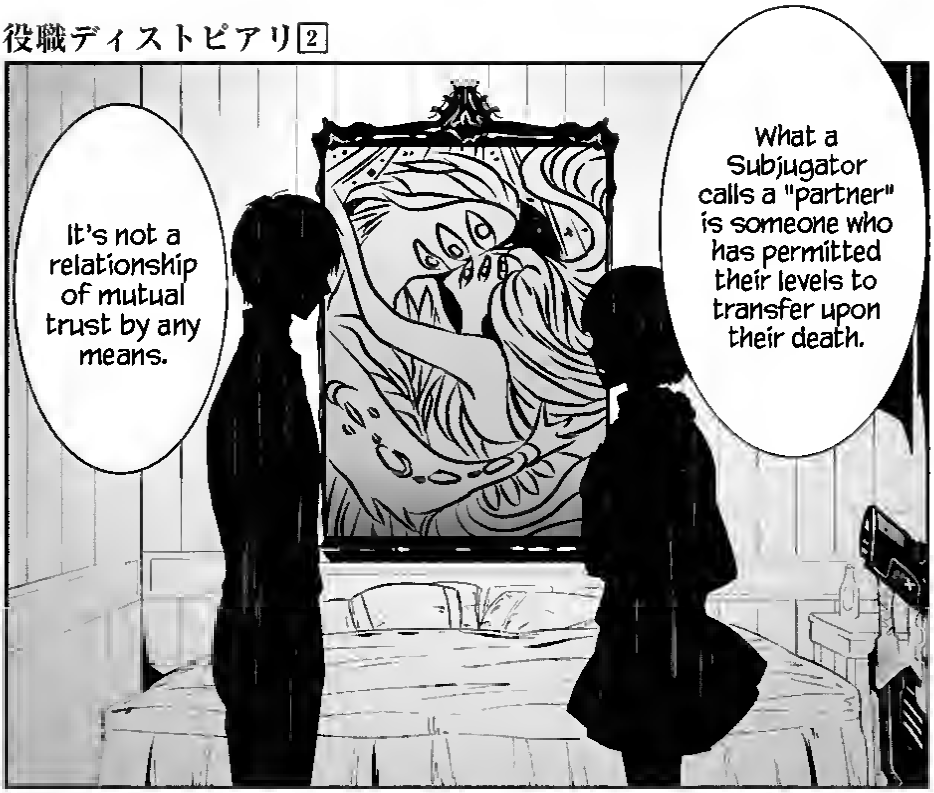
Hm?
Were you calling someone?
Ah, yep. My colleague!

Hi?

I was thinking that you should've spoken to me about it earlier.

...Of course.

Say, um...
I want to ask... about the Contract of Partnership.



What a Subjugator calls a "partner" is someone who has permitted their levels to transfer upon their death.
It's not a relationship of mutual trust by any means.

ガビ

For the contract to take place, the Subjugator must take in the person's bodily fluids.

Eh–
Eh?

The person's DNA, location, and lifeforce from those fluids are then marked...

Fwah-ドキ

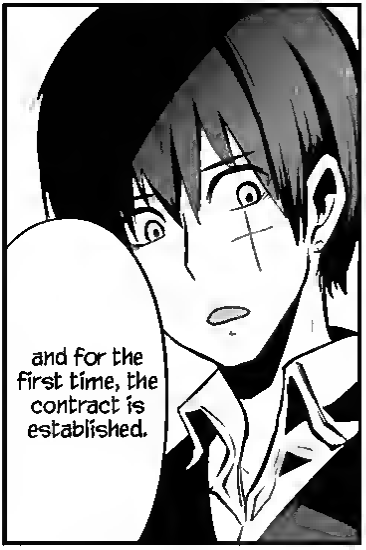
The methods of intake are sex, drinking blood... It varies depending on the Subjugator, but...



and for the first time, the contract is established.

Oral intake is the most comfortable.
That's what I've been constantly doing up until now in order to get more comrades, you know.

My methods vary, though.
Even if there are some unnatural demands, as long as I flash money, I can get a hold of suitable people.

I'm pretty sure you realize just how high the Demon King's level is.
In order to defeat the Demon King,
in theory,
you would have to attack him with a level greater than 9,999.

If you haven't been told yet, then let me enlighten you.
From what's left of our records, the human who possessed the highest level of 87 was the Physicist, Abyss Stein, who died 276 years ago.
Do you get it now? Human beings haven't been able to surpass him in three centuries.
And that's why Subjugators like us exist.
Just because it's done now doesn't mean it's right! Are you saying we can't find a way for everyone to be happy?

I don't want my support to end from causing issues for our friends in the Ministry of Enforcement, either.

If... you were to become my "comrade," a time may come where I'll be forced to make the decision to "abandon" you.
I don't want to make a contract with you in those kinds of shackles.
...Okay.

It's said that the number of Sub-jugators still alive is half of what there were, right?
Of them, 60% died from from accidents outside with M.O.N.stars ...
But the remaining 40% were killed by their comrades, huh?
It's a really... hopeless position, isn't it?

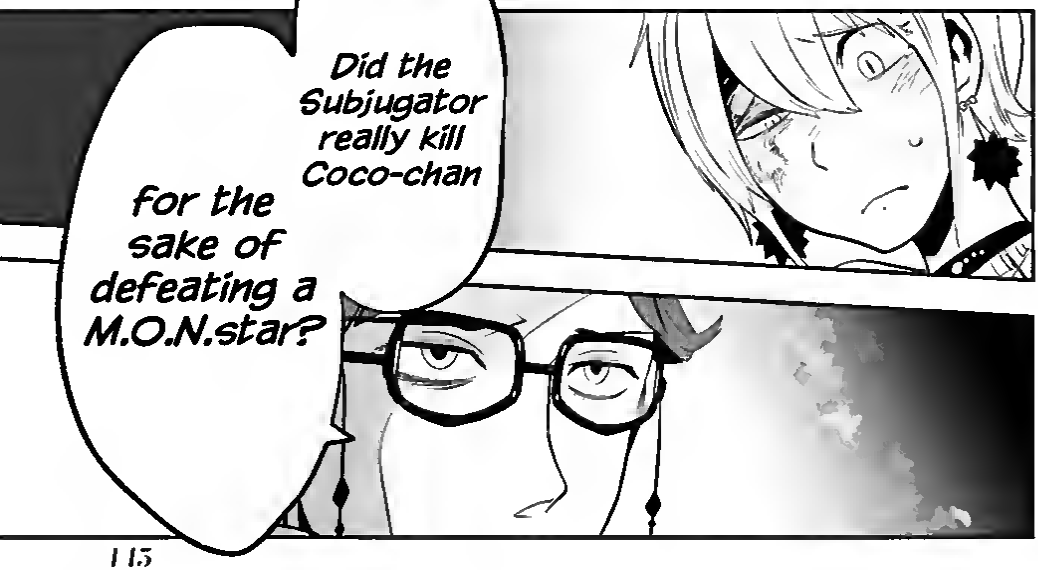
I went at once to retrieve her corpse, but there was something that worried me.
To begin with, Coco-chan was murdered deep in the mountains. M.O.N.stars don't really appear in those outskirts.
Moreover, if he killed her in one blow and her body was mysteriously bruised all over with this juicy stuff...
Plus, her right arm, which was the foundation for her Schrödinger, was cleanly chopped off, so...



Did the Subjugator really kill Coco-chan

So, Perrier-chan thinks that instead of being responsible for a Subjugator, she'd rather be responsible for the Demon King?
I'll personally handle the operation on the Demon King's side, so...
Being responsible for the Demon King as opposed to a Subjugator will always be more difficult and have a lower survival rate.
We mustn't change the issue!
The one at fault is the Demon King!

Coco-chan was slaughtered by a Subjugator and now I'm deeply worried having to clean up after her.
Because the Demon King exists, Subjugators have to fight him.
Perrier-chan is being forced into such an embarrassing appearance,
